

License to use the work

Granted by the author of the article submitted to the journal "Language, Culture, Politics. International Journal"

For

The University College of Applied Sciences in Chełm, ul. Pocztowa 54, 22-100 Chełm, NIP 5632077608, hereinafter referred to as the Publishing House

§1 General Provisions

1. This document constitutes a license agreement concluded between the Author and the Publishing House, specifying the rules for the use of the work submitted for publication in "Language, Culture, Politics. International Journal."
2. The author declares that he is the exclusive owner of the copyright to the work and has full right to grant a license under the terms specified in this document.
3. The license is granted on the basis of Creative Commons (CC BY).

§2 Scope of the License

1. The Author grants the Publishing House a non-exclusive, worldwide license to use the work in the following fields of exploitation:
 - 1) recording and reproducing the work using all available techniques (including printing, digital and electronic techniques) on any media;
 - 2) making the work publicly available in such a way that everyone can have access to it at a place and time of their choosing, including the Internet;
 - 3) dissemination of the work as part of the activities of the Publishing House, including its publication in "Language, Culture, Politics. International Journal."
2. The license also includes the right to translate, adapt, change and create derivative works of the work, to the extent permitted by the selected Creative Commons license.
3. The license is granted for an indefinite and irrevocable period.

§3 Creative Commons License Terms

1. The work is made available under the Creative Commons license (CC BY).
2. Under the Creative Commons license:
 - 1) users have the right to copy, distribute, reproduce and perform the work, provided that the conditions specified in the license are met;
 - 2) depending on the type of license chosen, users may have the right to create derivative works (developments) or use the work solely for non-commercial purposes;
 - 3) each use of the work must be accompanied by an appropriate attribution, in accordance with the license guidelines.

§4 Liability and Guarantees

1. The author declares that the work is original and does not infringe the rights of third parties, in particular copyrights, rights to trademarks, patents and other intellectual property rights.
2. The author guarantees that the work does not contain defamatory, offensive or otherwise illegal content.
3. If, during the use of the rights granted by this license to the Publisher, it turns out that the declaration made by the Author is false and any third party files pecuniary or non-property claims against the Publisher, the Author will be obliged to cover all damages (including actual damage, lost profits, costs of court proceedings, etc.) that the Publishing House incurred as a result.

§5 License changes

1. Any changes to this license must be made in writing to be null and void.
2. The Publishing House reserves the right to unilaterally introduce changes if they result from the need to adapt the contract to applicable legal provisions.

§6 Final Provisions

1. This contract is subject to Polish law. Any disputes arising from the implementation of the contract will be resolved by a common court competent for the seat of the Publishing House.
2. In matters not regulated by this agreement, the relevant provisions of copyright law and the provisions of the Civil Code shall apply.